

This new film travels with a record shop owner as he buys peoples' collections

Written by Lazlo Rugoff    Published on December 2, 2019

Vinyl road tripping with the owner of Chicago's Dusty Groove.

A new film that tells the story of Chicago Record shop Dusty Groove, and its owner Rick Wojcik as he buys record collections, is being released in 2020.

Read more: The world's best record shops #003 – Dusty Groove, Chicago

Dusty Groove: The Sound Of Transition follows Wojcik as he journeys to the homes of record collectors, buying their soul, jazz and hip-hop vinyl.

Dusty Groove: The Sound Of Transition was directed, filmed and produced by Danielle Beverly, and follows her feature documentary Old South.

According to Beverly, “Each seller shares a common reason: they face a major life transition.”

About

The Vinyl Factory is the world's foremost vinyl enterprise. It encompasses a record label, pressing plant and online magazine, and collaborates with artists and musicians to create stunning audio-visual shows. Read More